

The Man Who Waits

By Kirsty Ferguson

He watches and waits
But what is he really waiting for
Why does he stare
Like there is nothing else
The shine of her hair
Captures his attention
He raises his face
Her scent hangs in the air
She doesn't notice him
Never has
Still, he sees her
And waits

© 2010 Kirsty Ferguson