

Nature on Planet Earth

By Gina Iafrate

This planet in which we live, and we call home; has been created for us in a round ball formation. The soils, it contains is made from various substance in nature, in form and colour.

It also comes with great water bodies, starting from small veins that form our creeks, running rivers, the calmer lakes, the seas, our grand extensions our oceans.

The mountains are with indestructible beauty of vegetation, covered with an array of trees in every shape and form. Others come in volcanic formations, brewing deep down in their cavities, occasionally erupting their lava. Which can cause destruction, in its surrounding, but also add a new look to our earth. It creates a different scenario once deposited. The result is dark charcoal formation that turns into stone.

Our rocks also come in so many shapes and forms and colours. They can create unbelievable sites, for us to admire.

These are the earthly contents that form our planet. We are the living creatures along with are animal species to occupy it. Our planet long ago must have been a heaven of lush, unspoiled by living beings.

Our modern way of life and. technology puts a big dent on our mother earth.

We have managed to pollute our waters, contaminate our soils, the air we are breathing.

Yes our planet earth is a masterpiece of creation by some almighty power.

Our Seasons.

Fortunately where we live in Niagara Canada. We can enjoy the seasons. This is another gift of nature that comes with the weather effect on our planet Earth. The climate change creates different sceneries with our seasons. Which we call: Winter, Spring, Summer, and Fall. They contribute to the beauty of our planet each and every one in it's on special way.

Let's take spring; it is my favorite season, not only for myself but also for the rest of all the human beings on this earth, and other living creators big and small in all its forms and sizes. Spring is a time to renew. It manifests itself like an automatic force.

The sun illuminates our planet with more direct sunrays; it is like a wakeup call,

Nature starts to slowly transform, from the doll and drupe life to a new. The blooms and greenery eventually move on to create a magical place for us. The time stands still and the gentle breeze caresses our bodies that are immersed in this heaven on earth.

Summer. It brings us serenity, longer daylight, warm evening to admire the stars, cool drinks, time to work, time to rejoice, with family and friends in outdoor gatherings, warm and beautiful with peace and contentment in your soul.

We have fall! Fall comes to us with lots of good deliveries. Our trees start to turn their magic from green to cheerful yellow, burgundy, mauve, brown. The changes occur gradually, never stopping to amaze us. We enjoy it all with admiration. The harvest, our gifts from our seeding, this is the contribution back from our mother earth. We cannot forget, our vanguards, the bounty of grapes in color. The taste of the wine, with the many transformations, alluring us to our dinner table.

Winter! Some of us love winter, some don't. Winter can be also enjoyable, the beauty of the snow fall, our cozy homes with a crackling fire. The crisp outdoor air, clear of germs, for us to breath. The white mantel resting on our grounds and everywhere on trees and rooftops. It creates light with an angelic feeling .The icicles are an added décor to our surrounding they hang like white crystal chandeliers. Our warm clothes make us feel very comfortable. Great winter sports can enhance the spirit of the winter months.

There is an abundance of good things for us to glorify on this planet earth of ours.

Our great creator is indeed omnipotent, it is up to us to look for the beauty that has been placed here for us and indulges in its pleasures.

© 2011 Gina lafrate